EMAIL INTRO:

Do you remember the movie "Back to the Future 2"?

It was a 1989 sequel to the first "Back to the Future." In Part 2, Michael J. Fox used a time machine to travel 30 years into the future.

The 'future home' shown in the movie was loaded with high-tech gadgets. Lights would turn on automatically when people entered. Televisions were voice-activated and programmed with users' favorite shows.

The entire house was designed to do everything possible to make their lives easy and relaxing.

What if your house was just as advanced?

What if you could turn every device or appliance in your home on and off...with your phone?

But don't stop there.

What if your home could learn your habits and adjust behaviors to match your schedule and preferences?

It's not fiction. Smart homes are here!

Scroll down to discover more about the "final frontier" in home ownership...
